Science Behind the Slime

This month's STEM highlight activity was learning the science behind slime. Yes, you read it right...slime! Did you know that working with slime is currently one of the most popular kids' activities? BGC GW STEM director, Ms. Jas, knew and decided to teach our kids a little more about their favorite toy product. Club members were provided with kits that included everything they needed to make their own gooey slime. This hands-on learning experience went way just playing with icky slime.

From measuring and mixing to observing changes in substances – learning cause and effect – to experimenting with different colors and textures, our kids were eager to see their finished product. With just a few ingredients, safety procedures and a little encouragement our young people walked away with a greater understanding of science, a sense of accomplishment for their unique “flavor” of slime and built some confidence and self-esteem along the way.
